LDC Board Member Eddie Cubillo recognised with new Associate Dean role

The LDC Chairman, Board of Directors and CEO would like to congratulate Deputy-Chair, Eddie Cubillo, on his recent engagement as the Associate Dean (Indigenous Programs) at Melbourne Law School (MLS). This follows a successful legal career within the NT as a Former Anti-Discrimination Commissioner, NAAJA Chair and in the areas of litigation, family and commercial law.

Eddie has worked tirelessly in his role as a Senior Indigenous Fellow since February 2019 at MLS. Working with colleagues and students to undertake a number of initiatives to develop engagement and outcomes for Indigenous students and the community. Eddie will also undertake the role of Co-Director of the Indigenous Law and Justice Hub.

During this time Eddie has been a proactive member of the LDC's Board of Directors to stimulate economic opportunities for Larrakia people, including the Larrakia Cultural Centre development. Eddie recently undertook a site visit to the South Australian Museum Archives to inspect the hundreds of Larrakia artifacts in storage.

Eddie's appointment and two decades of committed work in the legal profession also reflects the high calibre of leadership that has contributed to the vision and successes of the LDC in its ongoing commercial activities.

Congratulations Eddie on your new role, continuing to be a powerful advocate for Aboriginal people across the Country.
